"The demand for quality dental care has never been stronger than right now," said Dr. DeJesus. "These two dentists could have easily joined a big dental chain but chose not to, so they can connect with patients on a stronger level and become more in-tune with the patient's history and therefore are better suited to provide consolidated services along with our in-house specialists, ultimately resulting in better outcomes."

After acquiring a Bachelor's degree from Queens College, Dr. Yelizar attended the prestigious New York University dental school. There, he graduated with an Honors in Aesthetic Dentistry and has received extensive training in complex dental treatments, including full mouth rehabilitative care and implant surgery.

Dr. Mullokandov is a 2021 graduate of NYU College Of Dentistry. He completed his residency at St. Barnabas Hospital as one of the program's top residents. He specializes in General Dentistry.

"Bringing two new dentists during this time is a testament to our growth as an independent practice. Much of our organic new patient growth is largely due to referrals from our existing patients, which means people are talking about the dentistry and experience with us" said Maria Matos, Office Manager.

Both doctors offer a wide variety of cosmetic dentistry and general dentistry procedures, including:

- Porcelain veneers
- Teeth whitening
- Dental crowns
