CAMP represents Alpha's unique automotive process that opens new ways to experience products and builds upon the Move Humanity™ culture of community innovation. It creates an engaging platform to streamline sharing of ideas, complete technical development, and contribute to finding solutions in sustainability.

Digital twin is a virtual creation that is identical to an existing physical object or experience in real-time. The origin of a digital twin speaks to Alpha's initiative to make industrialization more efficient, responsible, and sustainable through virtual validation.

Alpha has been leading EV development through Computer Aided Engineering (CAE) and CAMP is an industry first virtual experience of amazing brands that are collaboratively shaping the future of mobility culture. Throughout the CAMP site, featured brands showcase a digital twin of physical products that are available for purchase at each respective online store.

Rolling Stone Korea (https://rollingstone.co.kr) - Global Entertainment Network "CAMP by Alpha Motors is an innovative platform that represents the future of 'Move Humanity' culture. This digital creation goes beyond the EV industry and creates new possibilities through virtual travel.
