

Virtual Wall Gets IRS Approval as 501(c)(3) Non-Profit, Tax Exempt Public Charity

It may be virtual, but THE NURSES WALL created by Pamela Jane Nye to take back 2020's Year of the Nurse celebration stolen by Covid-9 is no joking matter.

PACIFIC PALISADES, CA, UNITED STATES, August 19, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- If there's a joke in this story, is believing the Internal Revenue Service jokes -- about anything!

Yet people smiled politely, laughed, scoffed, or joked about the Internal Revenue Service granting 501(c)(3) non-profit/tax-exempt public charity status to "a wall" that does not physically exist.

"THE NURSES WALL" – a grateful public's virtual gift to the world's frontline hero nurses, and memorializing the 3,000" nurse lives lost during "The Battle of Covid-19"

Had these people checked with Oxford Dictionary, they would have learned that a virtual wall can be real, although "Not physically existing as such but made by software to appear to do so."

There's no cost and little time involved. And given their 24/7 role as front-line responders during this relentless pandemic, why would anyone say 'no' to posting a nurse-thanking message? Seriously!"

Pamela Jane Nye

Odds also favor fewer skeptics and more supporters with the knowledge that THE NURSES WALL, albeit virtual, is a global public's gift to perpetually honor the world's 20+ million unsung hero nurses and memorialize the 3,000+ nurse lives taken by Covid-19.

The creator of THE NURSES WALL is Pamela Jane Nye, an acclaimed nurse who believes any doubt and mockery is less about the IRS classification and more about getting a billion+ nurse-honoring message postings before midnight on New Year's Eve.

To defend her "no joke" and "yes it's possible" belief, Nye uses simple math to explain a predictable pathway to a billion+ message postings emphasizing, "All I need are three high-profile people with combined Instagram social media following alone totals more than a billion people.

For example, to get 1.4 billion Instagram followers, there's Cristiano Renaldo with 517 million, Justin Bieber has 455 million, plus Ariana Grande brings 429 million. Including Selena Gomez's 425 million, Taylor Swift's 361 million, and Dwayne' The Rock' Johnson's 342 million, and the total becomes 2.5 billion. To reach 3.5 billion, add Katy Perry with 338 million, Kylie Jenner's 333 million, and Kim Kardashian's 319 million followers.

These combined totals may be less because many of these social media contacts will overlap because they follow multiple high-profile people. Totals may also increase due to multiple message postings and message posters recruiting others to participate.

Nye also acknowledges attempts will be made to recruit social media companies with billion+ subscriber numbers, including Instagram, Facebook, Google, TikTok, WeChat, and YouTube.

Nye remains optimistic, and should she find that "one influential person" and/or the high-profile people previously indicated, odds favor she'll enjoy a historically successful and meaningful mission. If not, the mission still succeeds by creating THE NURSE
