Growth Factors

Increased meat consumption, coupled with increased demand for nutritious meat, is expected to drive market expansion over the forecast period. Consumers are shifting their focus to a more nutritious diet that promotes a more sustainable lifestyle and is less dependent on animal protein.

Segmental Overview

Based on the source, the market is divided into beef, pork, chicken, duck, and seafood. Among them, chicken consumed much more than other meats, so the poultry sector had a large market share. Therefore, the major producers are mainly focused on the production of poultry, which is very popular all over the world.
