Starting in 2006 she has worked as the Co-founder of the Association Sans Frontières, a non-profit organization where she has been appointed Vice-President; she brings to this position her knowledge and in-depth experience in the humanitarian field.

Before turning to humanitarian work, she studied hairdressing and aesthetics in Belgium at the fine arts and crafts center where she was the winner at the cane competition in 1984, as a representative of Belgium. She won prestigious prizes in the field of the hairstyle.

Madam Liliane Temuni Ngoyi is a woman who fights every day for sick children with serious pathologies, congenital malformations which requires medical care.

She was led to humanitarian work after she gave birth to twins on September 5, 2000 who were diagnosed with down syndrome.

She discovered this disease and the required care which is linked to it. She devoted herself to the follow-up of her twins and their development. She was challenged to fight through the difficulties related to this syndrome.

In 2004, she lost one of her twins and following this tragic loss she decided to devote herself to sick children. Madam Liliane then decided to sponsor many surgical operations of children in the DRC and realized the lack of means and the precarious infrastructure for the poor.

She then decides to help the pediatrics of Kalembe-lembe; the only pediatrics in the DRC, and there this adventure began.

By her courage and her strength of character she knocked on all doors in order to obtain help for these needy children and earned the nicknamed "The beggar for the children".

She participated in numerous campaigns to help many children. She also takes care of 160 children with down syndromes all year round for medical care, including ophthalmology, orthodontics and dentistry in order to improve their quality of life.

She leads numerous campaigns to educate the parents of those down syndrome children about their potential and their learning capabilities.

It was based on her selfless actions that Madam Liliane Temuni Ngoyi Mawa was appointed Ambassador of the DRC Red Cross. Through her work within the Association Sans Frontières and the DRC Red Cross, she was also named "Godmother of Peace" for Central Africa by the Universal Council for the Peace of Nations and Continents "CULPAC" (a French acronym).

Madam Liliane Temuni Ngoyi Mawa fights every day to save children and obtain a better life through her medical intervention, as she puts it; a well-groomed child is a healthy adult.
