application of Electronic Health Records (EHRs) in the global healthcare sector. Application and use of patient registry data for real-world evidence and post-marketing observation has been increasing over the past decade, and is expected to continue trend and drive market growth during the forecast period.

A primary factor expected to hamper market growth includes security- and breach-related concerns regarding patient data and information.

Moreover, increasing government initiatives with regards to value-based care to improve patient experience and reduce the cost of care and healthcare burdens, in developed and developing economies, are among some of the major factors expected to augment growth of the global patient registry software market during the forecast period.

The study also focuses on the major driving forces and the restraints shaping the progress of the industry across different regions. The report entails both, investigative and discovery research methods to examine the performance of the prominent market players and their winning strategies to stay ahead in the competition.
