Dominic Maurillo, CEO of Milrose

“Texas is one of the fastest growing national real estate markets and has some of the more stringent and complex land-use, building code and zoning, and municipal permitting regulations and processes. As more of our clients and companies across the country continue to invest in and grow their presence in Dallas-Fort Worth, Austin, Houston, and the surrounding cities, we are excited to have Masterplan as part of our team and be able to offer our combined suite of specialized services to all existing and new clients across Texas,” said Dominic Maurillo, CEO of Milrose.

This acquisition further strengthens Milrose's ability to provide full-spectrum services, while increasing its presence throughout the Lone Star State. By partnering with Masterplan, clients from both companies will benefit from expanded access to high-quality services on a national level with localized experts within key markets nationwide.

“Masterplan has a proven track record of successful approvals in 300+ municipalities,” said Dominic Maurillo. “We are confident they can help us expand our presence, add new service offerings, and significantly add to the depth and breadth of expertise our clients have come to expect.”

Milrose is a national leader in municipal consulting services. This addition to their portfolio allows them to continue strengthening their commitment to be the premier national provider of construction and real estate consulting services.
