Saurabh Ganguli

With this new subsidiary, the company hopes to gain a strategic advantage and consolidate market share in Europe by offering their signature learning solutions locally and reinforcing their already existing and deep-rooted business relationships with leading establishments in Switzerland and the rest of Europe.

“We are excited to collaborate with businesses and strengthen our presence in Europe with Basel, Switzerland as our official European headquarters,” said Saurabh Ganguli, Founder & CEO of DelphianLogic Technologies. “For many years, we have had the ambition to establish DelphianLogic's physical presence in Europe and be closer to our clients. We had already been serving several leading organisations in Europe, albeit from our other offices. Establishing a strong local presence with a senior local leadership team will further increase the depth of our partnerships with our clients, attract the best local talent, and enhance our capabilities in the learning industry."

The creation of this new subsidiary in the European region closely follows the launch of DelphianLogic Inc, their North American subsidiary, in June 2022. This aligns with their continued commitment to being closer to their clients, serving them better and fueling the Smarter Learning revolution globally.
