Drivers

Growing adoption of self-testing kits

Earlier, people used to visit hospitals often, even for basic problems. However, as awareness has grown regarding several products, this behavior has changed and has turned the trend. Nowadays, people prefer to get their basic tests done using test kits at home before visiting a doctor.

This has become even more prominent due to this pandemic as people are adopting more self-help testing kits due to several restrictions in place. It has turned out to be a boon in disguise for both hospitals and patients as hospitals are already stretched thin and can entirely focus on COVID-19 patients, and the patients can save hefty costs of doctor visits and medicine fees. It has become highly convenient for consumers as they can quickly know their tests' results at their fingertips.

Easy availability of self-testing kits at pharmacies

At-home or self-testing kits are easily available at pharmacies, and it has become effortless to procure them. Various medical companies are venturing into this space as they rapidly manufacture self-test kits.

This widespread availability can also be attributed to online pharmacies' medical start-ups, making availability easier by clicking a button. In addition, these self-testing kits are available without any prescription.
