MINNEAPOLIS, MN, USA, August 26, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Setting the global standards for e-discovery, the Electronic Discovery Reference Model (EDRM) is pleased to announce a new webinar series “Ripped from the Headlines – Flash Webinar”. Next up in the series is “Ripped From the Headlines: Mystery of the Mar-a-Lago Docs & the Special Master” a flash webinar in a fireside chat format with the Hon. Magistrate Judge Kristen L. Mix (D. Colorado) in conversation with Dr. Maura R. Grossman, and moderated by EDRM’s CEO and chief legal technologist, Mary Mack, CISSP.

The politically neutral conversation will focus on the role of the Special Master, the differences between civil and criminal matters for Special Masters, what qualifications are needed, and how Special Masters are appointed, managed and appealed. Discussion will also focus on the why a special master is needed or not in the Mar-a-Lago search warrant matter.

organizations as they strive to rebound from the current global crisis as more cohesive, more stable and more productive entities. Robust e-discovery technology, supported by expertise and services, helps organizations respond to litigation, compliance and investigation demands. In a new era of remote work at scale, organizations need to securely manage information, protect confidential and privileged access and collaborate effectively to be efficient and productive and adhere to the increasing complex demands of security and data privacy frameworks.

“First, it was Michael Cohen, then it was Rudy Giuliani, and now, it’s Donald Trump; it is exciting to see special master and eDiscovery issues go mainstream! The latest request, however, is different from the earlier ones in ways that are worth considering. Recall that both Cohen and Giuliani had thousands of documents seized and were both lawyers seeking protection of their clients’ privileges,” said Dr. Maura R. Grossman, Special Master and Principal at Maura Grossman Law, and research professor at the University of Waterloo. “Trump is seeking review of a limited number of documents and protection of his own asserted privilege, through a civil action filed separately from the criminal case in which the warrant was issued.”

“Use of a Special Master in complex litigation is often promoted as benefitting both the court and parties by allowing access to needed expertise and enhancing the efficiency of the discovery process. Nevertheless, available data shows that appointment of a Special Master is far from a regular occurrence in federal court,” said the Hon. Kristen L. Mix, Federal Magistrate Judge, (D. Colorado) and President Emerita of the Federal Magistrate Judges’ Association. “The request for appointment of a Master to examine the Mar-A-Lago documents raises interesting issues and provides opportunities for robust discussion of the benefits — and potential drawbacks — of this emerging tool.”

Among the EDRM opportunities and resources available are the ability to connect, network and contribute via EDRM projects and events, share their expertise with our global community. ## About the Special Masters and Discovery Mediation Project

There are several state and federal courts around the country that have implemented a discovery facilitative mediation program over the last 5 or 6 years. This project involves identifying all such programs and determining how successful they have been. By comparing and evaluating such programs, we learned that there are certain factors/components that distinguish a highly successful program from a less successful program. Download the draft “Using Special Masters and Discovery Mediators to Resolve eDiscovery Disputes: A Bench Book for Judges and Attorneys 2022 Edition” here: <https://edrm.net/active-projects/special-masters-and-ediscovery-mediation-project/>.
