A DIRECT SUPPLIER TO CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIP FOR BEST-IN-CLASS MODULAR BUILDINGS

Here is the background on this release. It may be a common practice for manufacturing companies to parse out the communication and distribution of products to third parties. The business model may provide a few disadvantages, including miscommunications between manufacturer and client. An extra layer of 'middlemen' could delay problem-solving, extend timelines and add additional costs. Corporate leaders ready to find quick and professional solutions to workspace challenges may appreciate speaking directly to a top-rated U.S.-based modular office manufacturer. Allied Modular Building Systems has announced updates to two modular building pages. The company provides direct manufacturing, design, and delivery of various modular systems, including guardhouses, workspace modules, cleanrooms, and construction-site offices. Working directly with a manufacturer may be the best answer to the timely delivery and assembly of a professional modular space.
