Jay promotes teamwork, and human capital as one of the most important aspects that have helped his businesses grow. Jay also states that a disciplined routine, healthy mind and body and healthy "self-perception" leads to better relationships in your own business and life, leading to a stronger foundation for success as an entrepreneur and business professional.

About Jay Modi

As a serial entrepreneur since the age of 16, Jay created a household goods trading company while in high school, then moving on to an organic pasta company after graduating high school. Jay subsequently entered the University of Calgary before leaving university to get involved in real estate. Jay ran a successful real estate business until 2010 when he expanded the asset management side of his skill set and focused on that industry from 2010 to 2016. During that time Jay also established offices in Paramount Studios, Los Angeles, CA, and was the Executive Producer of approximately 12 movies, some of which became highly popular and are currently streamed on Netflix.

Fast forward to today, Jay has invested in and helped build many of Canada's top performing Financial Technology (FinTech) Platforms and continues to stay focused on the FinTech space where he sees massive growth and opportunity over the next few years. That decision blazed a path forward and led to Jay now having more than 20 years of business experience under his belt within multiple business sectors. Jay has been involved in Foods Manufacturing, Asset Management, Movie Production, Real Estate and now focuses heavily on the FinTech and Technology Industries.
