“The holiday season can bring a lot of stress to families who want to provide their children with the best possible life,” Caring For Others, Inc. Founder and CEO Eslene Richmond-Shockley said. “Christmas in September will help hundreds of families enter into this season of celebration with one less thing to stress about and can focus on sharing love.”

Individuals wishing to volunteer at the distribution can sign up at <https://caring4others.org/join-us/>. This is a great opportunity for community members to be a part of providing thousands of toys, food, and other necessities as we enter the holiday season to spread cheer as far and wide as possible.

"These are troubling economic times, and people are suffering," said Richmond-Shockley. "The more joy we can bring into the community, the better the world will be. I am so excited to see the children's faces as we kick off the season of giving."
