Respiratory disposables are medical devices used in conjunction with the respiratory devices, such as oxygen therapy devices, nebulizers, and ventilators, to treat respiratory disorders such as asthma, COPD, sleep apnea, etc. A wide range of respirator types and models or disposables are available for use in patient care during respiratory pandemics, such as COVID-19 outbreak (the ongoing global pandemic). Respiratory disposables save time and thus reduce economic burden on hospitals along with prevention of infection. Thus, respiratory disposables are often used in management and treatment of respiratory disorders.

Market Overview:

Increasing prevalence of respiratory disorders, such as COPD, asthma, and COVID-19, across the globe is expected to propel growth of the global respiratory disposables market during the forecast period. The demand for respiratory disposables has also grown due to the pandemic, resulting in governmental and industrial support for driving the pace of the manufacturing. For instance, in June 2021, AutoMedx, a company in the U.S.A. that specializes in producing easy to use mechanical ventilators, & Vincent Medical Holdings, a respiratory device supplier, sent SAVe II+ ventilators, inspired breathing circuits and inspired respiratory filters to Democratic Republic of Congo (DRC) through The World Bank.

However, dearth of global standardization in the Respiratory Disposables market all over the world is likely to hamper growth of the global Respiratory Disposables market over the forecast period.

Market Segments:

The epidemic of Covid-19 pandemic adversely impacted several industries. The virus outbreak in China spread across more than 100 countries around the world due to which many countries announced stringent lockdown regulations across nations in order to curb the virus spread. Several industrial operations were disrupted during this period as many businesses were closed down. The pandemic negatively impacted many markets including the one in discussion as product demand and sales significantly declined during the pandemic. However, as the pandemic situation goes back to normal, the market is likely to regain growth.

Market Size:

The global respiratory disposables market was valued at US$ 1,471.80 Mn in 2021 and is forecast to reach a value of US$ 2,910.10 Mn by 2028 at a CAGR of 9.2% between 2022 and 2028.

Among product segment resuscitator segment held dominant position in the global respiratory disposables market in 2022, accounting for 47.5% share in terms of value, increasing approval and launch of new products is expected to propel growth of the segment during the forecast period.
