

Atlanta Businesswoman Announces Launch of The Soucial Sage Movement

The Soucial Sage is a movement to rewrite the narrative about black women - for us and by us.

ATLANTA, GA, USA, September 1, 2022 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Sage Hill is the CEO and Founder of The Soucial Sage and is determined to make a bold impact on the lives of women of color. As we continue throughout life in our habitual routines from one day to the next, slowly society is crippling and causing an invisible traumatic scar that is everlasting on women of color. As women we must unite and fight against the perils that otherwise derail us and push us back as a collective.

Sage was not born to the name Sage Hill; however, as a society we all transform in various manners. Sage Hill did not allow her obstacles, challenges, or trauma define her. Rather, she prevailed and owned these experiences as she led with her soul and stepped into her resilient power.

Sage Hill provides a platform with The Soucial Sage podcast. This was created for women of color, namely black women, as a place where we can honor our voices, share our stories, and discuss the real issues that impact us. The Soucial Sage was created as a place for clarity, wisdom, and empowerment. The Soucial Sage is a movement to rewrite the narrative about black women - for us and by us. Sage Hill, the Founder of The Soucial Sage states, "We are not the stereotypes that were assigned to us, we are women of substance".

Sage reminds us that we do not need to tear one another down. Yet, on the contrary we need to lift each other up. As we are going through one of the most historic pivotal moments in history with the overturning of Roe v. Wade, women of color are disproportionately at the end of this tragic ruling. The implications of an abortion restriction for Black women in Georgia could be dire. According to Capital B Atlanta, in 2019, Black women made up 65% of the state's abortions. The Soucial Sage is based out of Atlanta, Georgia.

Sage Hill, proudly announces the launch of The Soucial Sage, a black female owned business in Atlanta, GA that is changing the narrative on women of color nationwide.

We are not the stereotypes that were assigned to us, we are women of substance.”
