"...if My People..." 2020 proved to be one of the most challenging years in global history. COVID-19, followed by racial injustice protests and riots during a heated election year exposed the disunity of the United States of America. Jesus Christ prayed to the Father that His followers would become one as He and the Father are one. This timely, heart wrenching film challenges Christians to face the issues that divide them theologically, racially, denominationally, politically and regarding gender.

In a dream, God speaks to Pastor Lev, brilliantly played by actor, Anthony Shaw-Vaughan and shows him America as God Himself sees it and says, "Yet forty days and America will be overthrown." Pastor Lev shares his dream in a video that goes viral compelling supporters and protestors to converge on the small town in Virginia. Some to voice their indignation and others to fast and pray for forty days. "...if My People..." not only points out the issues that Americans face but offers the solution.
