But the message is clear: instead of moving or adding on to a home, families can get a shed.

A cost-effective alternative to doing a home addition is to add an accessory structure to their property to help declutter their living space.”

Jeff Huxmann

“As families grow they can run out of space in their homes,” said ShedHUB founder Jeff Huxmann. “A cost-effective alternative to doing a home addition is to add an accessory structure to their property to help declutter their living space.”

ShedHUB.com is:

- the only online marketplace where customers can research, read reviews and shop for custom storage sheds.

- where dealers from across the U.S. sell on the marketplace, so customers have the widest possible selection of products.
- a website that includes articles and resources to help customers who want custom spaces or need to know more about materials or building accessories.

Once a family finds the right fit, many sheds can even be delivered to their home.

ShedHUB.com founder Jeff Huxman is available for interviews on a variety of industry topics.
