/EINPresswire.com/ -- A drainage bottle, also called a wound drainage system, is a medical device that is used to collect fluids from wounds. It consists of a container (usually made of plastic) with a tube that goes into the wound. The other end of the tube is connected to a suction device. The purpose of a drainage bottle is to remove excess fluid from the wound so that it can heal properly. This helps to prevent infection and promotes healing. Drainage bottles are commonly used after surgery, but they can also be used for other types of wounds.

The increasing prevalence of chronic diseases and the growing number of surgeries are the major factors driving the growth of the market. In addition, the increasing geriatric population and the rising awareness about wound care are expected to boost market growth during the forecast period. However, the availability of alternative products is expected to restraint market growth during the forecast period. The drainage bottle market is segmented on the basis of product, material, end user, and geography.
