Experts suggest that teaching kids the gift of giving encourages empathy and compassion for others. Gift-giving can build self-confidence and a sense of purpose that can last a life-time. Kids can also be introduced to money skills and social interaction skills during the process of selecting, making, and presenting gifts.

"Fabby-Do promotes self-confidence in kids through the expression of creativity and unique experiences." said Fabby-Do founder Robin Brackbill. "A growing number of our creation kits are loved by kids and adults alike. The 'Make for Mom' collection items are memorable gifts that kids love to make and give to family and friends."
