

Hawaii Medical College Helps Students with Fireside Chats

Many topics are covered to help students apply, finance and complete their education

HONOLULU, HI, UNITED STATES, September 7, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Hawaii Medical College (HMC) has developed a series of Fireside Chats to educate students and the community at-large about healthcare education and careers.

A vocational education at Hawaii Medical College helps graduates find employment with in-demand, careers in healthcare. But on the road to completing that education there are obstacles that keep some students from accomplishing their goals. Whether it's difficulty with the application, the financial aid process or uncertainty about their ability, HMC wants to provide as much help as possible. To that end, Fireside Chats are planned on a variety of subjects. The first, held in August, featured The Queens Health System, and focused on the school's externship partnership and what it takes to work at Queens. The Fireside Chats are free and are held every five weeks.

The second, to be held on September 9, 2022, will cover subjects related to financial aid, including:

- What does the President's loan forgiveness announcement mean to you?
- What if I'm in default? What is the Fresh Start program
- How does the Federal Student Aid program work?
- What is a Pell Grant?
- What are the positives and negatives about student loans?

"Hawaii Medical College prides itself in being student-centric," stated Ashton Cudjoe, President &
