Company recognized for DE&I in the technology channel through words, actions and leadership

MIAMI, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, September 9, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Due to its ongoing diversity, equity and inclusion efforts, managed service provider Henson Group and its Chief Human Capital Management Officer, Neha Sharma, have been named to the 2022 Channel Futures DE&I 101 list.

The list recognizes individuals from diverse and multicultural backgrounds who are driving diversity, equity and inclusion in the technology channel through their words, actions and leadership.

“The need for DE&I has been acknowledged in the channel for many years. And while any number of tech organizations have received attention for the DE&I programs they’ve launched, it’s the people at the grassroots level who get things started and keep the momentum going. Our list turns a spotlight on those people – people like you who are impacting our industry,” said a spokesperson for Channel Futures in announcing the recognition.

“Neha is propelling Henson Group forward when it comes to innovation, business growth and customer/supplier connections, and we’re grateful that her creative work is being recognized,” said Greg Henson, Henson Group’s board chairman.
