I find science and medicine exciting. It is important to continue to investigate these areas with young people with fresh ideas innovating the fields.”

Stacey Denise of Ceyise Studios

Stacey Denise is a full-time dedicated surgeon and an advocate for the STEM programs to be available to underrepresented minority youth. Stacey elaborates, “I find science and medicine exciting. It is important to continue to investigate these areas with young people with fresh ideas innovating the fields,”. As a believer in the overall act of intellectual exploration, the surgeon turned artist notes a time when her emotional expression was not possible. Identifying as a “recovering Alexithymic” according to the Chief Creative Officer’s biography, art was used as the outlet to bring forth her emotions in a healthy manner. “I believe in intellectual and creative expressivity because it serves to soothe my soul.” Ceyise Studios Director states.

This studio goes beyond making thought-provoking impressions. In an effort to connect art & design to relate to health, Stacey Denise firmly believes that art improves brain health and stress. The vibrant designs seen across the studio’s artwork is created with special digital art tools to capture the photographic base of the painting. Taking it one step further the artist utilizes special programs to create depth, texture, and new color combinations to properly create the visual expressions. Ceyise Studios can help bring clients' dreams and messages to life in the form of art that pleases the eye. To know more about Stacey Denise and her mission visit Stacey Denise USA Artist | Ceyise Studios
