

Aloha Laundry Life is positioned for fast growth in Hampton Roads' industrial sector

On-demand wash-and-fold laundry service aims to add to the quality of life in the area's seven cities

HAMPTON ROADS, VA., UNITED STATES, September 12, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- As the connecting point between seven cities including Virginia Beach, Hampton Roads is the ideal location to establish Aloha Laundry Life in the bustling metropolis that boasts over 1.8 million residents.

The revolutionary wash-and-fold pickup-delivery laundry service conducts all of its business – orders, sales, and customer interactions – through an app. This way, Aloha delivers quickly, efficiently, and with ease of communication between customer and operator.

Aloha Laundry Life is now in service to Hampton Roads' diverse communities that include Virginia Beach, Norfolk, Chesapeake, Newport News, Hampton, Portsmouth, Suffolk, Williamsburg, Franklin, Poquoson, and Moyock.

Rich in history that dates back over 400 years, Hampton Roads has established its reputation as "America's First Region," where the first continuous English settlement was founded, the country's original free public education was given, and where NASA trained its first astronauts. Nowadays Hampton Roads keeps thriving thanks to several major industries set up in the area such as information technology, food and beverage processing, and distribution and logistics.

In addition to its history and historical reputation that emerged from its intricate waterway system, Hampton Roads' low cost of living and quality of life was what motivated Aloha to launch a market in the area.

Because the company offers people the opportunity to own their own "virtual laundromat," Aloha is also where it can support the local communities of Hampton Roads as well as provide its clients the convenience of tackling one of daily life's most essential tasks: laundry.
