HYDERABAD, TELANGANA, INDIA, September 13, 2022 / EINPresswire.com/ -- IndustryARC, in its latest report, predicts that the Fruit Drinks Market size is estimated to reach $175.6 billion by 2027, growing at a CAGR of 5.1% during the forecast period 2022-2027. Beverages that are fabricated from liquid extracted through macerating fruit are referred to as fruit drinks. The liquid extraction is followed by evaporation to remove the water content and extend the expiration date. The left concentrate is then remixed with artificial sweeteners and flavoring agents like ethyl butyrate to recover the lost flavor throughout the process. Following the preparation, the drinks are first filled into hydrogen peroxide sterilized containers to make them ready for final packaging. The development of pasteurization has led to the widescale popularity of fruit drinks as this method plays a significant role in the preservation of the beverages without using fermentation. Besides, high intensity pulsed electric field has emerged as a sound alternative to heating pasteurization as this method slays bacteria and improves the overall flavor, color, and nutritional value of the drink. The fruit drinks are home to several nutrients like ascorbic acid (the purest form of vitamin C), folic acid, and other important nutrients. Folic acid helps in building red blood cells and fighting health illnesses like anemia. Rising proactiveness regarding health, growing disposable incomes, ameliorating retail network, and state-of-the-art marketing strategies undertaken by players are factors set to drive the growth of the Fruit Drinks Market for the period 2022-2027.
