"As the founder of the Black Fairy Godmother Foundation, I am committed to helping those make it through the tough times and find new success," says Simone Gordon, CEO of the Black Fairy Godmother. "Over the past year, we have helped hundreds of families survive the COVID years. Now, there are hundreds, if not thousands, more who need assistance. Without our support, they may lose their homes, healthcare, and their dignity. To help them find a new foundation for growth, development and success, this is why I present our yearly fundraiser, the Purple Diamond Awards."

The musical guests -- Kenny Lattimore and Jeff Redd -- will bring gratitude for giving recognition to well-deserved honorees. Grammy Award nominated singer songwriter Kenny Lattimore has been hailed by the New York Times as a "modern soul man" thanks to hits such as "For You." Jeff Redd brings back the 90s and the classic sounds of New Jack Swing with smashes such as "You Called and Told Me”.

"I don't want women who experience domestic abuse or hard times to be alone. The Black Fairy Godmother Foundation makes sure that together, we can survive, thrive and move forward with hope. I graduated like many other women will in our program because hope was met with action."
