Illuvium, a pioneering AAA collectible NFT RPG game and auto-battler, today announced its plans to attend the first-ever Australian Crypto Convention, taking place on the weekend of 17th-18th of September at the Gold Coast Convention & Exhibition Centre.

Commenting ahead of the event, co-founder of Illuvium Kieran Warwick saw the upcoming convention as “unmissable,” with the AAA gaming company based out of Sydney, New South Wales.

“When it was announced that the first-ever Australian Crypto Convention was set to take place, there was no way that Illuvium would ever miss being involved. With over 1 million Australians now owning cryptocurrencies, the time has never been better for an event of this magnitude, and the team here at Illuvium can't wait to be part of it."

Not content to just be a part of proceedings, Illuvium plans to offer attendees the chance to get their hands on their much-anticipated auto battler game. Although still in the beta phase, those in attendance will have the opportunity to test their abilities and build a team to survive the onslaught of endless waves of increasingly powerful Illuvials!

The Illuvium team will be on-hand at the event to chat with fans and answer any questions you may have, while co-founder Kieran Warwick is scheduled to take part in the Future of Web 3 Gaming panel, and also present a 25 minute keynote speech.

With the crypto convention taking place in the centre of Broadbeach, surrounded by nightlife, restaurants and golden beaches, why not attend the Illuvium after-party?

Working in partnership with leading cryptocurrency exchange, Coinbase, Illuvium is set to offer attendees the chance to unwind and enjoy some of the best DJs that Australia has to offer, including a headline set by Sydney house producers and DJs Set Mo, and special guests Dick Dollar.
