Typically, asbestos exposure will have occurred sometime between the 1950s and the 1980s. Some of the most prevalent professions that encountered large quantities of asbestos include power plant workers, maritime workers, industrial workers, plumbers, pipefitters, electricians, mechanics, machinists, miners, railroad workers and construction workers, to name a few. Since the latency period for mesothelioma patients is approximately 40 years, most people diagnosed with mesothelioma or asbestos-related lung cancer in 2022 were exposed decades ago. www.mesotheliomaoptions.com

Massachusetts ranks in the top half in the United States for asbestos-related deaths due in large part to popular industries such as shipping, manufacturing, mining and textiles. Asbestos was also heavily used in the building of naval vessels, which occurred at shipyards up and down the coast. In addition, many structures built decades ago still contain asbestos and require careful cleaning and removal by professional asbestos abatement teams so not to cause the asbestos to become airborne. www.mesotheliomaoptions.com
