The reinsurance market consists of sales of reinsurance by entities (organizations, sole traders, and partnerships) that assume all or part of the risk of existing insurance policies originally underwritten by other insurance providers (direct insurance carriers). Reinsurance providers invest premiums collected from insurance providers to build up a portfolio of financial assets to be used against future claims. The size of the market is based on the value of the premiums reinsured. The reinsurance providers market is segmented into property & casualty reinsurance; and life & health reinsurance.

Global Reinsurance Market Trends

Reinsurers across the globe are offering bundled products and services to enhance their revenues. This change is a result of diverse choices, attractive prices, and broader coverage offered by reinsurers to gain additional market share and cut down costs. This approach has helped global reinsurers to close business deals at a group level, thereby reducing the need for reinsurance at different levels. For instance, reinsurance companies Generali and Allianz have adopted a bundled approach, enabling them to get better oversight of the global market and cut down the cost of offering reinsurance services.

Global Reinsurance Market Segments

The global reinsurance market is segmented:

By Type: Property and Casualty Reinsurance, Life and Health Reinsurance

By Distribution Channel: Direct Writing, Broker

By Mode: Online, Offline

By Organization Location: Domestic, International

By Geography: The global reinsurance market is segmented into North America, South America, Asia-Pacific, Eastern Europe, Western Europe, Middle East and Africa. Among these regions, Western Europe accounts for the largest share.
