of polarizing entries whose submissions continue to raise the bar of hotels from metropolitan cities to the serene beauty of nature, architecture, and interior design projects, dining experiences, and fun-filled travels and journeys that makes the hospitality and tourism industry an incredibly competitive and exciting one.

The competition has seen a new wealth of entries and projects submitted by hoteliers, architects and interior designers, developers, travel agencies, restaurant owners, and all related professionals within the hospitality and tourism industry. Among these internationals who entered the new era of the prestigious hotel awards program are

HARRIS Vertu Harmoni (Indonesia), Daxton Hotel (United States), The Yeatman (Portugal), The Ranch (United States), Almar Jesolo Resort & Spa (Italy), LOTTE HOTEL YANGON (Myanmar), W Amman (Jordan), Moliving (United States), da YVONNE Trattoria Pizzeria Toscana (Germany) and many more.

“Thanks to the strict measures taken by hotels worldwide to flatten the curve and the continued rollout of vaccines and boosters, it would seem that the hospitality and tourism industry is finally back in fighting shape and is fighting off the Covid-19 virus with full force,” Thomas Brandt, spokesperson of IAA said. “This year marks an incredible milestone for the MUSE Hotel Awards. Not only are we still discovering the world’s best hotels, in addition to the world’s greatest feats in architecture and contemporary and cutting-edge interior designs, sublime gastronomic adventures and once-in-a-lifetime journeys.”
