

Charlotte's own leader in nursing business launches new book

Nurse Entrepreneurs Release New Book with Goal to Empower and Impact Healthcare Professionals Throughout the Country

CHARLOTTE, NC, UNITED STATES, September 15, 2022 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Veronica Southerland, FNP-BC, and 18 of her other Mentor Me nurses announce their newest project A Nurse's Journey To Entrepreneurship. Southerland also known as Vee The NP, owns Charlotte's premier black-owned luxury wellness center FLO Hydration and Wellness, leads nurses throughout the country, and has spoken at the United Nations on behalf of minority nurses throughout the world.

Southerland's book is a culmination of decades of work within the nursing industry – from growing up with dreams of nursing to overcoming adversities such as racial disparities, teen pregnancies, and language barriers to see their childhood dreams become a reality.

In January of 2022, these 18 other nurses joined Southerland for a six-month intensive business builder program. Throughout this program, these nurses learned high-level business practices plus day-to-day growth tactics. They each are now healthcare business owners in states across the country.

"Creating a business-focused mentorship program for nurses is easy for me, almost a no-brainer," Southerland said. "I'm a serial entrepreneur with quite a few successful businesses in my portfolio. But to me, that doesn't mean much if I'm not teaching my fellow nurses who want options in addition to their bedside role. I've learned A LOT of lessons in my decades of being in business. My calling is to pour out all I've learned."

A Nurse's Journey To Entrepreneurship launch serves as a pinnacle for these nursing professionals. Each of them wrote their own story and allowed it to be woven into the fabric of the story of nurse entrepreneurship.
