Astera Data Services combines API lifecycle management and powerful data integration capabilities in one platform to help businesses effortlessly consume, develop, and publish APIs and integrations with zero coding and securely share them with their stakeholders.

> I think this product really open doors for some organizations to provide services to their partners, that didn't really have the resources or stomach to start such projects. Now, they can get in the data services game too."
>
> Mike O'Quinn, VP of Product Management

The API Lifecycle Management solution allows users to consume APIs for easy data integration and application mashups. Users can design and test their own APIs in a drag and drop environment and deploy them on on-premises, cloud, or hybrid environment. It enables users to easily secure and manage APIs in one place. Users can also monitor API consumption trends through a live dashboard and convert API metrics into business benefits.

Using Astera Data Services, businesses can create a connected network with seamless data sharing, rapidly deliver new digital solutions, foster new partnerships, and enhance customer experience.

Astera will show a live demonstration of Astera Data Services and how it can help optimize API lifecycle management at Big Data LDN.
