

Raconteurria delivers universal medical protection with absolute privacy for all

Finally, Healer-Egg contains information about the patient not fully disclosed in the past, due to lack of privacy, that endangers the medical professionals.

TAICHUNG, TAIWAN, September 16, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Healer-Egg is a new medical information delivery mechanism that intertwines virtual and physical elements to ensure absolute privacy while protecting everyone involved in medical emergencies.

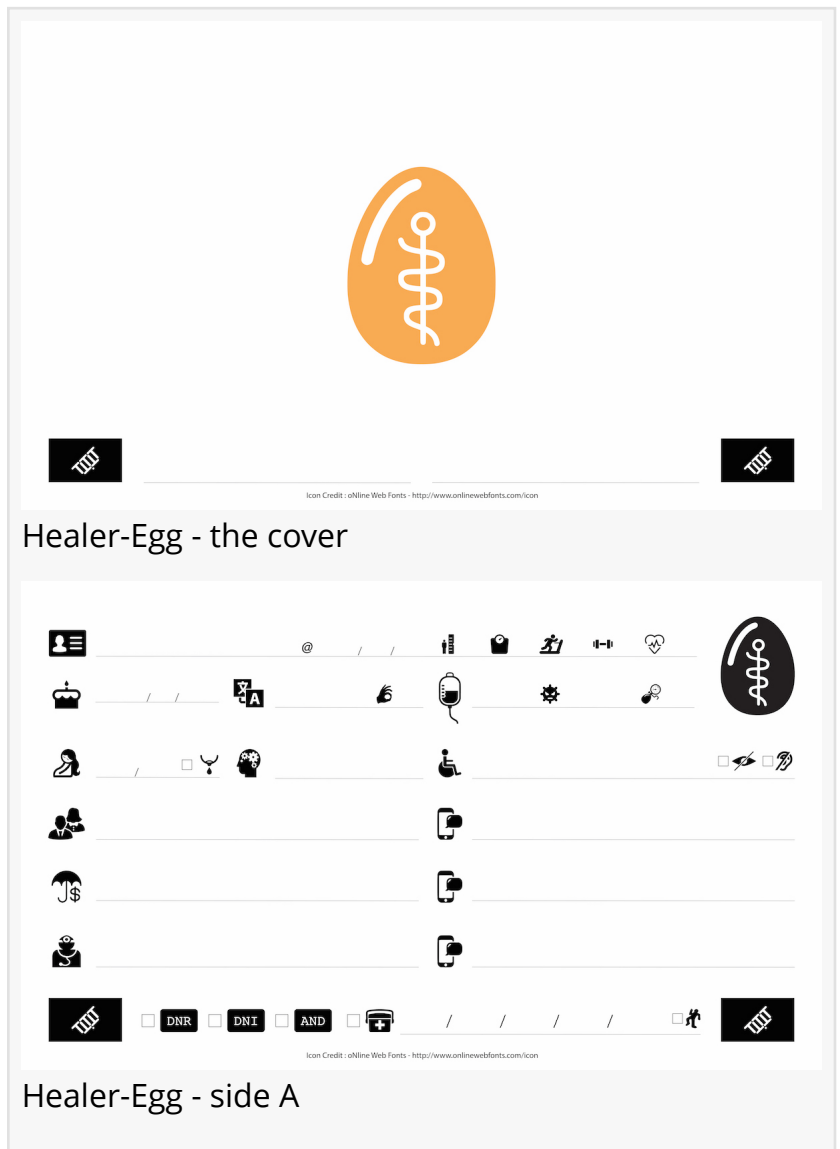

It is designed with the presumption that a globe-trotter in a foreign land is unconsciousness and bleeding and requires immediate medical attention from local professionals.

The system uses aliased physical cards with essential fields for medical information denoted with clear medical icons, so it transcends the limits of natural languages.

The real alias and location of the card is carried on a smartphone lock-screen or printed badge for emergency medical responders to optimize their efforts.

Multiple cards can be made with different aliases and kept together or apart to confuse anyone who comes into possession of the cards for extra protection.

The real alias and location of the medical information is stored apart from the actual medical information card, so losing either still retains absolute privacy.

Healer-Egg is the first card that stores vital information that protects all parties involved, the patient, paramedics, nurses, and the doctors in a medical emergency.

“This mechanism shines in schools, and militaries, or organizations where the environment can best protect members with complete medical records, yet not linked to faces.”

Remember my name ...
you'll be screaming it later."
Florence Nightingale

A global complimentary professional license is hereby granted to the following guardians and protectors who risk their lives and health on every shift to guard and protect humanity, lives, and souls:

And all staff members of the aforementioned fine establishments. This is for your unlimited use during the whole professional career, wherever you are.

The system is available online, everyone is invited to download the Healer-Egg files and take the web interface for a spin and enjoy clean technology.
