Entertainment Ventures (USAEV) is proud to announce the release of its latest product: the Small Footprint Simulator. The training simulator design is engineered for use in high schools, community colleges, higher education institutions, and U.S. military academies.

USAEV is a veteran-owned business and a registered federal, state, local contractor.

“

If you can think it, we can build it.”

Dan Kost, CEO

The company's vision is to empower students and instructors with limitless opportunities to learn and apply classroom knowledge and skills in a hands-on practice environment.

With full modular training controls spanning real-time displays and cameras matching the human eye, ergonomic keyboards, a steering wheel, aircraft controls, and surgical equipment, the training simulator can be wholly utilized to educate and train students and cadets of all ages in new professions.

USA Entertainment Ventures' mission is to revitalize the teaching experience with tools and software programs that embrace immersive learning, while allowing trainees to acquire the skill sets needed to succeed in today's competitive, tech-driven marketplace.
