Global Finance Cloud Market Report

the global finance cloud market reached a value of US$ 27.13 Billion in 2021. Looking forward, IMARC Group expects the market to reach a value of US$ 91.67 Billion by 2027 exhibiting a CAGR of 21.70% during 2022-2027.

Finance cloud is an integrated platform that uses flexible software as a service (SaaS) and core information technology (IT) solutions to automate, streamline, simplify, and assess numerous financial procedures. It helps eliminate large, upfront capital costs for systems software, computer hardware, and accounting application software licenses. It is usually offered on a subscription basis and delivers multi-dimensional financial analysis, a higher return on investment (ROI), and mobile access to enterprise collaboration. As a result, the finance cloud is gaining immense traction among large finance organizations globally.

Global Finance Cloud Market Trends and Drivers:

The global finance cloud market is primarily driven by the rising focus of finance companies on digitally transforming their financial services operations with advanced cloud and IT modernization standards for better data mining, automation, and security. Moreover, the increasing need for cloud solutions for financial services, such as customer experience, point of sale (POS), core banking, and digital payments, amid the coronavirus disease (COVID–19) outbreak, is positively influencing the market growth.

Additionally, businesses are shifting workloads from on-premises hardware toward cloud financial management to allow real-time data access, which has augmented product demand. Besides this, several key players are providing multi-layered security, such as identity management, network security, and threat detection and response, due to rising data breaches, thereby contributing to the market growth. Other factors, including technological advancements, increasing cyber threats, and rising demand for operational efficiency, are also anticipated to drive the market further.
