This clinic is focused and excel on a set of services that offer a high quality of care for men's sexual health concerns such as, but not limited to:

Erectile Dysfunction (ED)

Erectile Dysfunction is a medical condition where a man is consistently unable to achieve and maintain an erection that allows for satisfactory sexual function. Though all men may experience an occasional lapse of sexual function, ED is the recurring inability to achieve an adequate erection, despite being sexually aroused. At Precision Men's Sexual Health Clinic Mississauga, help is available for men at all stages of declining erectile function with options ranging from low-intensity shockwave therapy, injection therapy and Trimix treatment and counselling with a certified sex therapist.

Peyronie's Disease

Peyronie's disease is an acquired penile curvature due to scar tissue in the penile shaft. Treatment plans including therapies such as intralesional injections (PRP, Pentoxifylline, Verapamil), topical and oral medications, low intensity shockwave therapy, surgical options, traction devices and lifestyle modification.

Penile Enlargement

Natural penis enlargement can be possible with injection therapy. No surgery is necessary, and no fillers are used. Injection therapy is a simple and near painless procedure which uses factors drawn from the patient's own blood, and therefore the therapy is non-invasive, with no side effects or risk of allergic reaction from one's own biological material.

Frenulum Breve

The frenulum of the penis is a band of tissue located underneath the penis. When the frenulum is tight or short, this is called a frenulum breve. A short frenulum can result in tension on the frenulum during erections, which can rip and tear during vigorous activities such as sex, causing pain and bleeding which in turn causes many men to lose their erections. A tight frenulum may also contribute to premature ejaculation.

Appointments are available quickly. Please contact the clinic directly to book a consultation, or for more information.
