Jeff's experience with practice governance, operations and all financial performance will be a tremendous asset to CVAUSA and the practices he works with. "

Suzette Jackie, chief operating officer, CVAUSA

strategic advisor effective immediately. Ozmon will consult for CVAUSA providing expertise around the strategic and tactical planning of the platform practices and provide detailed direction and analysis to support business growth opportunities. Ozmon will work closely with CVAUSA's chief operating officer, Suzette Jaskie, along with the physician and executive leaders of the CVAUSA network.

"Jeff's experience with practice governance, operations and all financial performance will be a tremendous asset to CVAUSA and the practices he works with. We are very lucky to have Jeff as part of our CVAUSA team," said Suzette

Jaskie, chief operating officer, CVAUSA.

Ozmon has held many prominent positions in healthcare including vice president, consulting at MedAxiom and vice president of operations at Sanger Heart and Vascular. These prominent positions demonstrate Ozmon's leadership and healthcare acumen. While at Sanger Heart and Vascular he was responsible for leading assimilation post acquisition and the crucial role of operational and clinical integration. He worked extensively across all facets of the business and was instrumental in business development, annual budgets and advance forecasting.

"I look forward to joining an extremely talented group of physicians and professionals that have a vision of transforming healthcare, a change that we can get excited about," said Jeff Ozmon, senior strategic advisor, CVAUSA.
