About the Author

The Adventures of Kirk Rogers
Inside the Moon

C. J. Boyle started out writing screenplays because she loved the way movies could take you out of your own life for a little while and show you a different world. After her creations sat on a shelf for a few years just collecting dust, she decided to turn a few of them into novels to share with the world. Most of her books have a sci-fi element of some kind. She has her father to thank for that - he introduced her to Star Trek at a very young age and she was hooked.
