EINPresswire.com/ -- The ceramics textile market is dominated by the end-use industrial sector. It would also rise during the forecast period, with the highest CAGR. This is primarily due to the globally rising petrochemical, steel, and aluminum end-use industries.

High demand for end products from industries such as iron & steel, aluminium, petrochemicals and others pushes ceramic fiber production. Asia-Pacific is the largest and fastest expanding ceramic textile market. Key drivers that are propelling the growth of the market included in the report. Additionally, challenges and restraining factors that are likely to curb the growth of the market are put forth by the analysts to prepare the manufacturers for future challenges in advance.

Ceramic fabric properties such as insulation, good efficiency at low temperatures, and heat insulation lead to its huge market size. It has extensive applications including welding foundry works, aluminum and steel mills, boiler insulation and sealing, shipyards, refineries, power plants, and chemical plants. Braids would be the fastest-growing segment in the market. The characteristics of braids such as maximum resistance to mechanical abuse, superior strength, minimal unravelling would trigger the growth of the segment. However, ceramic textiles are carcinogenic in nature and they have durability issues, and these could hamper the growth of ceramic textiles market.
