Integration Gives Global Companies a 360 View of Employees and the Ability to Streamline Data Management

EAGLE, IDAHO, USA, September 22, 2022 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Tovuti LMS, the adaptive, people-first Learning Management System \(LMS\), today announced that it is helping organizations unify key employee information in the cloud with Workday, a leading provider of enterprise cloud applications for human resources and finance. Tovuti connects directly with Workday Human Capital Management (HCM) through a Workday Cloud Connect packaged integration that syncs learning experiences with core worker history and talent profile data.

The Tovuti and Workday integration helps our clients achieve the benefits of the cloud with a fully unified perspective of human capital management and learning and development activities.”

Michael Krause, Tovuti COO

In brief, Tovuti customers can now leverage Workday as the single source of truth for employee information and automate and streamline employee onboarding and training development programs.

are significantly reduced by connecting the applications.”

Specific integration benefits include:

- *Ability to automatically assign training and teams to employees
- *Robust filter rules to specify which users to sync from Workday

As the world continues to define its return-to-office learning strategy, automation is crucial in deploying department-specific learning paths and location-based training guides for the new hybrid workforce.

For rapidly expanding businesses, Workday is a leader in the HCM market, according to Krause.
