

Tablet Coatings Market Present Scenario on Growth Analysis | Allied Market Research

PORTLAND, OREGON, UNITED STATES,
September 22, 2022 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- According to the report by Allied Market Research, titled, "Tablet Coatings Market" by Polymer (Cellulosic, Vinyl, and Acrylic), Functionality (Delayed Release and Sustained Release), Type (Sugar Coated, Film Coated, and Enteric Coated), and End User (Pharmaceutical, Nutraceutical, and Others): Global Opportunity Analysis and Industry Forecast, 2021-2028".

Tablet coating is a process in which a surface coating, which is primarily dry, is applied to a dosage form; this helps provide more specific drug benefits than non-covered types of drugs. Tablet coating can be applied in dosage forms such as powders, granules, pellets and crystals. Over time, tablet coverage has become more advanced. Compliance with Good Manufacturing Practices (GMP) is recommended. The acquisition and development of new tablet covers and better resource planning contribute to the development of better products.

The growth of the tablet coating market is driven by increasing R&D activities in the development of better tablet coatings and the development of the pharmaceutical industry. In addition, the rapidly growing generic market from the food and biopharmaceutical sectors is supporting the growth of the tablet coating market.
