Students can get accepted on the spot, get their college application fees waived, and receive scholarships. This event will help high school seniors and college transfer students looking to transfer to a four-year college. Last year was virtual and over 2 million dollars was awarded to students to attend college. In addition to getting connected to college recruiters, students have access to informative seminars, mental health resources, workshops, internships and career opportunities.

“We are excited to host our 11th Annual New York Black College Expo™ this year. Although it was virtual the last two years, we look forward to our traditional in-person event where we award millions in scholarships through our college partners to NY students,” says Dr. Theresa Price, Founder/CEO.

This event will help students learn about various colleges, funding resources, and available internships and careers. Educators, parents, guardians, students, and college students of all ethnic backgrounds are welcome to attend. Segments will be streamed live on NCRF TV which also hosts segments on college readiness and other content created by students and alumni of NCRF.
