The automotive performance tuning and engine remapping service market is improving rapidly from the growing awareness of vehicle owners about the importance of the same. These facilities were previously only available to auto racers. However, in recent years, automotive tuning services have become increasingly popular in both the passenger and commercial vehicle markets. Moreover, automotive performance tuning and engine remapping are done for performance improvements in automobiles. These services essentially remap the software in the Electronic Control Unit (ECU) of vehicles, boosting the power and torque. Furthermore, performance tuning and engine remapping in vehicles can serve several other characteristics of the engine without adding any hardware or changing any hardware. In addition, many new vehicle models have had success with remapping facilities to solve problems with exhaust gas recirculation (EGR) systems. For instance, boosting the fuel/air ratio will help vehicles reach the peak of their performance. According to an estimate, emappers have claimed to have increased horsepower by as much as 30-40bhp and torque up to 80nm.
