Market Trends and Drivers:

At present, rising concerns of parents about the overall health and hygiene of their babies represent one of the key factors influencing the demand for diapers positively in the GCC region. In addition to this, product manufacturers are introducing eco-friendly, plant-based, organic, and natural variants, which are made without harmful and toxic skincare ingredients. They are also focusing on introducing premium diapers formulated for sensitive skin with sustainable packaging solutions to minimize carbon footprints. Apart from this, the easy availability of products through online and offline channels, along with the burgeoning e-commerce sector, is projected to create a positive market outlook for the market in the region.
