Key Market Analysis and Insights:

Per diem nurse staffing is a temporary solution of professional nurse staffing wherein, skilled nurses are hired on daily work basis. This is done to meet the requirement of working staff shortage. In other words, under per diem nurse staffing, the nurses are hired to meet the last-minute demands from the end users. Moreover, the nurses are highly compensated for their work. Since, hospital staff is a crucial asset for any healthcare facility, the recruitment process must involve the scrutiny of skilled and trained medical professionals.

Upsurge in the initiatives taken up by the government to promote the growth of healthcare infrastructure is one of the major factors fostering the growth of the market. Ever-rising geriatric population base coupled with growing prevalence of a wide range of chronic and infectious diseases is another market growth determinant. Growth in the demand for trained medical professionals, rising medical tourism and surge in the number of individuals taking up medical science as a profession are other important factors that will further generate lucrative market growth opportunities.
