

American Humane Deploys Mobile Rescue Unit to Florida's DeSoto County in Aftermath of Devastating Hurricane Ian

American Humane's Rescue Team, under Code 3 Associates along with ASAR Training and Response, is rushing to the impacted area today

PALM BEACH, FL, UNITED STATES,
September 30, 2022 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- American Humane, the country's first national humane organization, is deploying to Arcadia, DeSoto County, Florida in the wake of the devastating damage wrought by Hurricane Ian. The Category 4 storm made landfall on September 28th and barreled into Florida's southwest coast, killing a number of people and displacing thousands in its path. It is already considered one of the worst storms to ever hit the state, with swirling winds, torrential rain and powerful storm surges tragically trapping both residents and their pets.

Dr. Robin Ganzert, American Humane President & CEO

“American Humane is always ready to help both animals and people impacted by catastrophic natural disasters like this one,” said American Humane CEO and president Dr. Robin Ganzert. “Our team will be working tirelessly to do everything it can to rescue the precious animals caught in the wake of this destruction and help the resilient people of Florida come back from this stronger than ever.”

American Humane's Rescue Team, under Code 3 Associates along with ASAR Training and Response, is rushing to the impacted area today with the organization's 50-foot mobile rescue unit, one of three donated by internationally renowned philanthropist Lois Pope, making it possible for American Humane first responders to be on the ground and providing aid to animals and relief organizations in real time.

The team will be assisting local authorities and animal shelters in Arcadia, DeSoto County, Florida to help rescue animals from the areas affected by severe flooding and structural damage, providing much needed care and attention to animals struggling in the wake of this crisis.
