We don't think patients should be forced to choose between driving to a local DME and paying a premium for their urology supplies or ordering catheters via Amazon without dedicated support.”

Dan Moyer

company known for its iontophoresis device in the dermatology market, today announced that it has partnered with Cure Medical, a California-based catheter manufacturer, to launch an online urology supply line and subscription service.

RA Fischer's complete suite of urological solutions includes intermittent catheters and kits for adults through pediatric patients. Leveraging Cure's best-in-class product portfolio and the nationwide distribution networks of both Cardinal Health and McKesson, every urology patient referred to RA Fischer is personally assigned to a Treatment Specialist who helps ensure success.

“We're really excited about working with Cure on our new urology line,” said Dan Moyer, VP of Sales and Marketing for RA Fischer Co. “All of Cure's products are DEHP/DINP & BPA-Free and align with our focus on medical innovations that are safer, easier, and more effective for patients.”

The launch of the Fischer urology line is officially underway. RA Fischer enters the urological supply space with over 50-years of experience serving patients in the hyperhidrosis community.

“For us, this is the first step in helping more patients get the care they need,” explained Moyer. “Our primary goal for business development is modernizing patient experiences. We don't think patients should be forced to choose between driving to a local DME and paying a premium for their urology supplies or ordering catheters via Amazon without dedicated support. Our mobile-friendly website and monthly subscription services allow patients to set and forget their fundamental medical needs. You get what you need, when you need it, delivered right to your doorstep, and then you can rely on your Treatment Specialist to answer any questions you may have.”
