The corrugated handle box market consists of sales of corrugated handle boxes by entities (organizations, sole traders, and partnerships) that are used as shipping or transportation containers. The corrugated handle boxes are made of sheets of paper and cardboard containing three layers of material on the sides, namely an interior layer, an outside layer, and a middle layer. These boxes offer protection, durability, and cushioning for shipping and storing products. These boxes are biodegradable and can be recycled and reused.

Global Corrugated Handle Box Market Trends

Product innovation is a key trend gaining popularity in the corrugated handle box market. Major companies operating in the corrugated handle box sector are focusing on efficient and innovative packaging and shipping systems to improve the functionality, durability, and convenience of the shipping process and ensure easy monitoring of packages. For instance, in April 2020, Samsung Electronics, a South Korea-based electronics company, launched a new eco-friendly cardboard packaging across its Lifestyle TV product portfolio. The packaging is made from corrugated cardboard and is equipped with a manual that can be accessed by scanning the
