Key Trends In The Biosurfactants Market

Technological development is one of the key biosurfactants global market trends gaining popularity. The companies operating in the biosurfactants sector are investing in the development of new biosurfactants to meet the technical demands from different end-use industries across the globe. For instance, in March 2022, Evonik Industries, a Germany-based manufacturer of speciality chemicals launched Rewoferm RL 100 Biosurfactant, to meet the growing demand for low-emission and low-impact cleaning products. Rewoferm RL 100 Biosurfactant is manufactured from locally-sourced feedstocks and offers effective cleaning performance.

Overview Of The Biosurfactants Market

The biosurfactants global market consists of sales of biosurfactants by entities (organizations, sole traders, and partnerships) that refer to a diverse group of molecules, which consists of a polar head (hydrophilic) and a non-polar tail (hydrophobic). They are produced by various microorganisms, which include Acinetobacter sp., Bacillus sp, Candida antartica, and Pseudomonas aeruginosa. They can be used to replace synthetic surfactants in a variety of industrial processes, including lubrication, wetting, softening, fixing dyes, making emulsions, stabilising dispersions, foaming, and preventing foaming, as well as in the food, biomedical, and pharmaceutical industries, and organic bioremediation.
