As the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) crisis takes over the world, we are continuously tracking the changes in the markets, as well as the purchase behaviours of the consumers globally and our estimates about the latest market trends and forecasts are being done after considering the impact of this pandemic.

Market Trends:

The escalating demand for this technique to ease the supply chain process and allow organizations to focus on their core business activities, on account of the expanding international trade, is among the primary factors driving the airfreight forwarding market. Besides this, the elevating requirement for this solution across small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) to manage cross-border e-commerce movements, owing to the rising online sales of consumer electronics and fashionable garments, is further augmenting the market growth. Moreover, the development of customized airfreight forwarding techniques by the leading players to meet the transportation needs of major companies is also catalyzing the global market. Apart from this, the increasing business-to-business (B2B) shipping, on account of the inflating number of automotive products, medical devices, agricultural items, and seafood, is expected to bolster the airfreight forwarding market in the coming years.
