“LiquidPlanner has earned a 2022 Tech Cares award for demonstrating a strong commitment to corporate social responsibility,” said Megan Headley, VP of Research at TrustRadius. “LiquidPlanner has supported their remote workforce by allowing for flexible schedules, paying those who live in areas with lower costs of living as well as those in more expensive areas, and supporting employee priorities for donation and volunteerism.”

LiquidPlanner is proud of its Corporate Social Responsibility initiatives. Community investments included direct sponsorship and commitment of employee time to events such as the “Because I Can” run benefiting Seattle’s Children’s Hospital and the annual United Way Day of Caring.

To be accepted for the TrustRadius Tech Cares Award, each nominated organization had to be a B2B technology company that demonstrated impactful CSR initiatives in one of the following categories; volunteerism, diversity, equity, and inclusion programs, charitable donations and fundraising, support for in-office and remote employees, or environmental sustainability initiatives.
